

Karnal Bunt

Pest under active surveillance

This is one of the most important diseases affecting wheat crops, because it affects flour quality, causing infected grains to give off a fetid (fish) odor, altering their organoleptic characteristics.